

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This Pinex syrup does the work in a few minutes. It soothes, relieves, and cures at once.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you can buy. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

"Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes."

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the danger of "heat" or "chills." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts "on once." Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can it affect stomach and heart, as some internal remedies do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (often prevents pneumonia).

RUSSIAN VILLAGES TAKEN BY ALIES

American, Russian and Polish Forces Advance Fourteen Miles Southward.

By the Associated Press.

ARCHANGEL, Monday, December 30. An allied force composed of American, Russian and Polish yesterday advanced fourteen miles southward along the road bordering the Onega river. They met with considerable resistance from the bolsheviks, but captured more than a dozen villages and did not halt until they had taken the village of Cogoli.

Starting from the village of Kalovani, early Saturday morning, American forces took the village of Trilaki, where there is a large monastery. They continued the advance in hot fighting Sunday, and had not yet been halted up to late Monday. Fighting being used to transport the allied soldiers.

Semi-Arctic Conditions.

The advance, the first attempt of the winter, was carried out under semi-arctic conditions, and in the few hours of daylight which obtain in this region. The village of Cogoli is approximately eighty miles south of the town of Kalovani, and along which the allied forces advanced in the general direction of Volodga and across the railway line at an important strategic point from which the bolsheviks have been operating.

An important role in yesterday's fighting was taken by a Russian naval brigade which had been trained by American and British naval officers. The Polish troops also participated, distinguished themselves in the early days of the fighting along the Dvina. The Poles and Russians are filled with hatred for the bolsheviks, and neither ask nor give quarter in combat.

Americans Have Won Peasants.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON DVINA, December 11 (Correspondence of the Associated Press). "American soldiers are 'dobre ludie' and 'soberni sympatniki.' That is the verdict of the people living in the straggling little collections of frame and log houses which make up the villages along the Dvina. The two phrases, meaning respectively 'kind people' and 'very sympathetic,' are heard everywhere that the doughboys have gone in their struggle against the bolsheviks. All our allies are welcome, but there is a disingenuous fact that the soldier who has won the hearts of the peasant people is the American. The correspondent went today with a command of Americans through a territory where they had been three weeks ago. There was a halt at one little village for a brief rest. The sturdy soldiers had no sooner thrown themselves down on the grass before he church than curious heads popped out of windows of houses nearby. "Amerikanski shliati," shouted one small boy, and soon from house to house went the word that these were the same men who three weeks ago spent a day there.

Whole Town Turns Out.

The peasants brought milk to the "dobre ludie," smiling girls came out of houses and shyly smiled at the doughboys and dogs of the husky Arctic type wagged their tails as a welcome to the Americans. The whole town turned out and waved good-bye when the march was resumed.

"I don't know just what it is that does it," one company commander told the correspondent, "but our men are popular nearly everywhere. Perhaps it is because they treat the peasants as friends and pay as they go. But there is something more than that. There are big, husky Americans walking along the village roads with tiny Russian children clasping their hands, and today the correspondent saw a pretty peasant girl leaning from a window to pin a flower on a soldier she had met just five minutes before, and who could not speak her language.

Russians Eager to Get Tobacco.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON THE DVINA, December 12 (Correspondence of the Associated Press). "Tobacco famine has become so pronounced in the territory along the Dvina and Vaga rivers, where Russo-allied forces are operating in northern Russia, that the peasants are willing to exchange almost anything they have for small quantities of tobacco or cigarettes.

The correspondent went ashore from a flat-bottomed oil paddle-wheeler steamer with a packet of ten very bad cigarettes and secured in exchange twelve eggs, a half bushel of potatoes and ten pounds of cheese. The Russian peasant has been an inveterate smoker for nearly a century. During the past six months, the tobacco-growing country in the south has been cut off from the north by battle lines and the supply was soon exhausted.

The peasants have been smoking tea leaves, tree leaves and dried moss. Each boat that comes up the river and stops at a village is besieged by peasants asking for cigarettes or "nee minoshka tabak," meaning a little tobacco.

Money is virtually worthless in transactions with the peasants, ten cigarettes going much farther than a hundred rubles in the purchase of products.

U. S. "WOEFULLY BEHIND" IN CHEMICAL WARFARE

While the future of the chemical warfare service depends in a large measure on what the peace conference decides as regards war warfare, the military establishment should include a research branch, whose duty it is to keep abreast of scientific and chemical developments, according to the testimony given by Maj. Gen. William L. Sibert, director of chemical warfare service, before the House appropriations committee. He said that the United States has been "woefully behind other nations in such research work, which has a growing tactical use in warfare."

An organization of this kind would have as its biggest element a research branch, said Gen. Sibert, "the function of which branch would be to keep abreast of the times in all of the chemical appliances or substances necessary or useful in war work, if the use of gas is continued or authorized, the training of troops in the use of gas, and other things of that sort. That would be a part of its functions, but whether gas is used or not there are other chemical substances, such as smoke, that have a tactical use in warfare and the use of which is growing. I refer to the making of screens behind which troops can advance. We would also have a proving ground force in connection with our research force to try out appliances that were developed either in our own laboratories or found abroad."

Premier Clemenceau Resting.

PARIS, January 1.—Premier Clemenceau, who has labored incessantly since he took office thirteen months ago, is taking a rest. The premier was under a specially severe strain during the parliamentary sessions of the last few days. He has gone to Moulleuon-en-Pareds, la Vendee, where he was born seventy-eight years ago.

YANKEE FINDS ARCHANGEL LIFE "MESSY," BUT HE DOESN'T KICK

Writes in Stars and Stripes of Work "Quelling Bolshevism" and "Guarding the Northern Lights"—His Laundress Used Fish Oil for Soap.

BY PAUL SCOTT MOWBRER.

Cablegram to The Evening Star and Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1919.

PARIS, France, December 30.—The Stars and Stripes, the American newspaper, publishes the following mildly melancholy letter from a member of the American expeditionary force in Archangel, Russia:

"We were sent to this part of the world to quell bolshevism and guard the northern lights. We are so far north the doggone sun works only when he feels so inclined, and that was like everything else in Russia. The moon isn't so particular. She comes up, usually backwards, at any time day or night in any part of the sky. Having no regular schedule, she often gets lost and will still be on the job at noon. Yes, we are so far north that thirty-six degrees below zero will soon be tropical to us. The have to build fires around the cows before they can milk them.

And It's a "Tough Town."

"This is a tough town. There are 269,831 inhabitants, of whom 61,239 are human and 208,592 are dogs—dogs of every description from poodles to St. Bernards and from wolf heads to half-bred dachshunds, which are half German and half bolshevik and look the part.

"The wind whistles across the Dvina river like the Twentieth Century Limited passing Podunk. The snowflakes are as numerous as the retreating Germans were in France a few weeks ago. Centimes, sous and francs may be hard to count, but you never hear of rubles and kopecks? A kopeck is worth one-tenth of a cent and there are 100 of them in a ruble. Thus a ruble is worth a dime. (Ordinarily a ruble is equal to about 50 cents.) To make matters worse, all the money is paper, coins having gone out of circulation since the mixup. A kopeck is the size of a postage stamp and looks like a cigar cigarette. A 25-ruble note resembles a porous plaster and a 100-ruble note looks like the Declaration of Independence.

The Waitress Understands, Too.

"When a soldier in search of a meal enters a restaurant he says to the waitress, 'Barishna sakajretyeh bifstek pohalyaste,' which means 'An order of beefsteak, lady, please.' Always say 'barishna,' which really means girl. Until a young lady is married she is always addressed as 'barishna,' she will answer the hungry customer with 'Yah ochen sojalyu shko tyest yestnik pripasov yechel' (a simple home cure for indigestion), meaning, 'I am sorry, sir, but we are right out of food today.' He will try other places, and if lucky is apt to stumble across a place where one can get something to eat, but when he looks at the bill of fare he learns that it will cost about $7.50 for a sandwich and a cup of coffee, and he beats it back to the barracks.

Washington Car Conditions There.

"Every time we get on a street car we have to count out sixty kopecks for carfare, and most of us would rather walk than be jammed into the two-by-four buses. Before boarding a car a passenger usually hunts up a couple of five-gallon milk cans, a market basket or two and a bag of smoked herrings, so that they will get their kopeck's worth out of the ride besides making the atmosphere nice and pleasant for the rest of the passengers.

"If you should meet a soldier walking down the street with his nose turned up and his mouth puckered in apparent contempt it would be wrong to think that he was conceited, for if the truth be known he has probably just got his shirt back from the washerwoman, who used fish oil in-

WORLD'S LEADING MEDICAL AUTHORITIES

Indorse Value of Such Ingredients as Are Contained in Father John's Medicine

A Wholesome Food Medicine and Body Builder

Free from Alcohol and Dangerous Drugs—60 Years in Use—Guaranteed.

The most eminent medical authorities, recognized all over the world as the highest in the science of medicine, have made public statements indorsing the value of such ingredients as we guarantee are the principal ingredients of Father John's Medicine.

High medical authorities say "that these ingredients are beneficial notably in wasting diseases which are curable and those maladies which are connected with or have their origin in colds and debilitating and wasting diseases."

To give these statements in full would take too much space, but we will furnish on application the list of ingredients of Father John's Medicine, the names of the medical authorities referred to, what they say, the publications and the dates of same.

Never wait for a cold to wear off—it wears away the lungs instead. Neglected colds often lead to pneumonia. Father John's Medicine gives prompt relief from colds and throat troubles.

Guaranteed free from alcohol and nerve-destroying drugs upon which many medicines depend for their temporary effect, and which are dangerous, because they weaken the body and allow the disease to get a deeper hold.

BOLSHEVIKI TAKE UFA, OPPONENTS' CAPITAL

LONDON, January 1.—Ufa, capital of the non-bolshevik government in the area west of the Ural mountains, was captured on Tuesday by the bolsheviks, according to a Russian wireless message received here today. The wireless message adds that the Lithuanian bourgeois government has left Vilna for Kovno. The message reads: "Ufa, capital of the white guards on this side of the Ural, was taken by us Tuesday. On the same day the town of Sterlitamak, south of Ufa, was captured. Feeling that their position was endangered, the Lithuanian bourgeois government has left Vilna for Kovno."

Bolshevik troops continue their advance westward in Estonia and Lithuania and are marching on Reval and Riga, according to a Russian wireless report received here today. Southeast of Riga the bolsheviks have taken Romershof, on the Dvina. A statement reads:

"On Monday in the direction of Reval our detachments had advanced as far as Lokshis and Kolk after two days' fighting. In the direction of Riga we have taken Raimotzi, fifteen verst from Venden (northeast of Riga). On the right bank of the Dvina we have taken Romershof. On the Sventitskiy-Ponochash railway we have taken Ustianiy (midway between Dvinsk and Vilna)."

Lost in Snowstorm, Nine Perish.

SENDAI, Japan, December 15 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A party of nine Japanese students and teachers who went mountain climbing on a nearby range lost their way in a snowstorm and were frozen to death. Searchers found the bodies huddled together in a ravine, the arms entwined in a vain effort to keep off the cold.

Courtesies of the Street.

"When a Russian meets a man he knows on the street both lift their hats and dirt with each other. If they stop and talk they always shake hands, even if they have not seen each other for fully twenty minutes. Then they simply shake hands again when they leave. When a man meets a lady he usually kisses her hand and shows her how far he can bend over without tearing his suspenders, as he

Wonders if It's a "Separate War."

"Another thing. Are they really holding a separate war up here for our benefit? Just because we are not in on the big things in France is no reason why they should run past the season series especially for us. We appreciate the kindness, honor and all that, but believe me, after all the dope we got in the trenches about pianos, wooden floors, steam heat and other conveniences, when we see ourselves on outpost duty with one blanket and poncho or sleeping in twenty-eight inches of pure cozy mud which before we awaken turns into thin ice, it makes us want to cry out and ask the universe what we have done to deserve this exile?"

"Do not think we are kicking—American soldiers never do. We just wanted to have something to write about and remind you that we are part of the A. I. F. although isolated."
